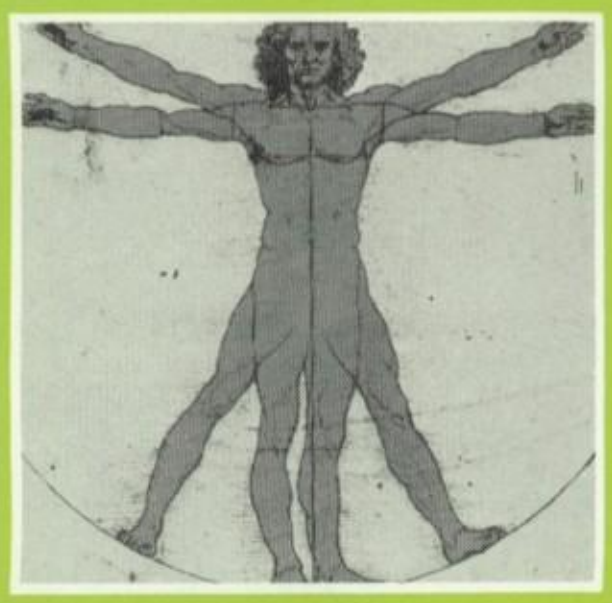
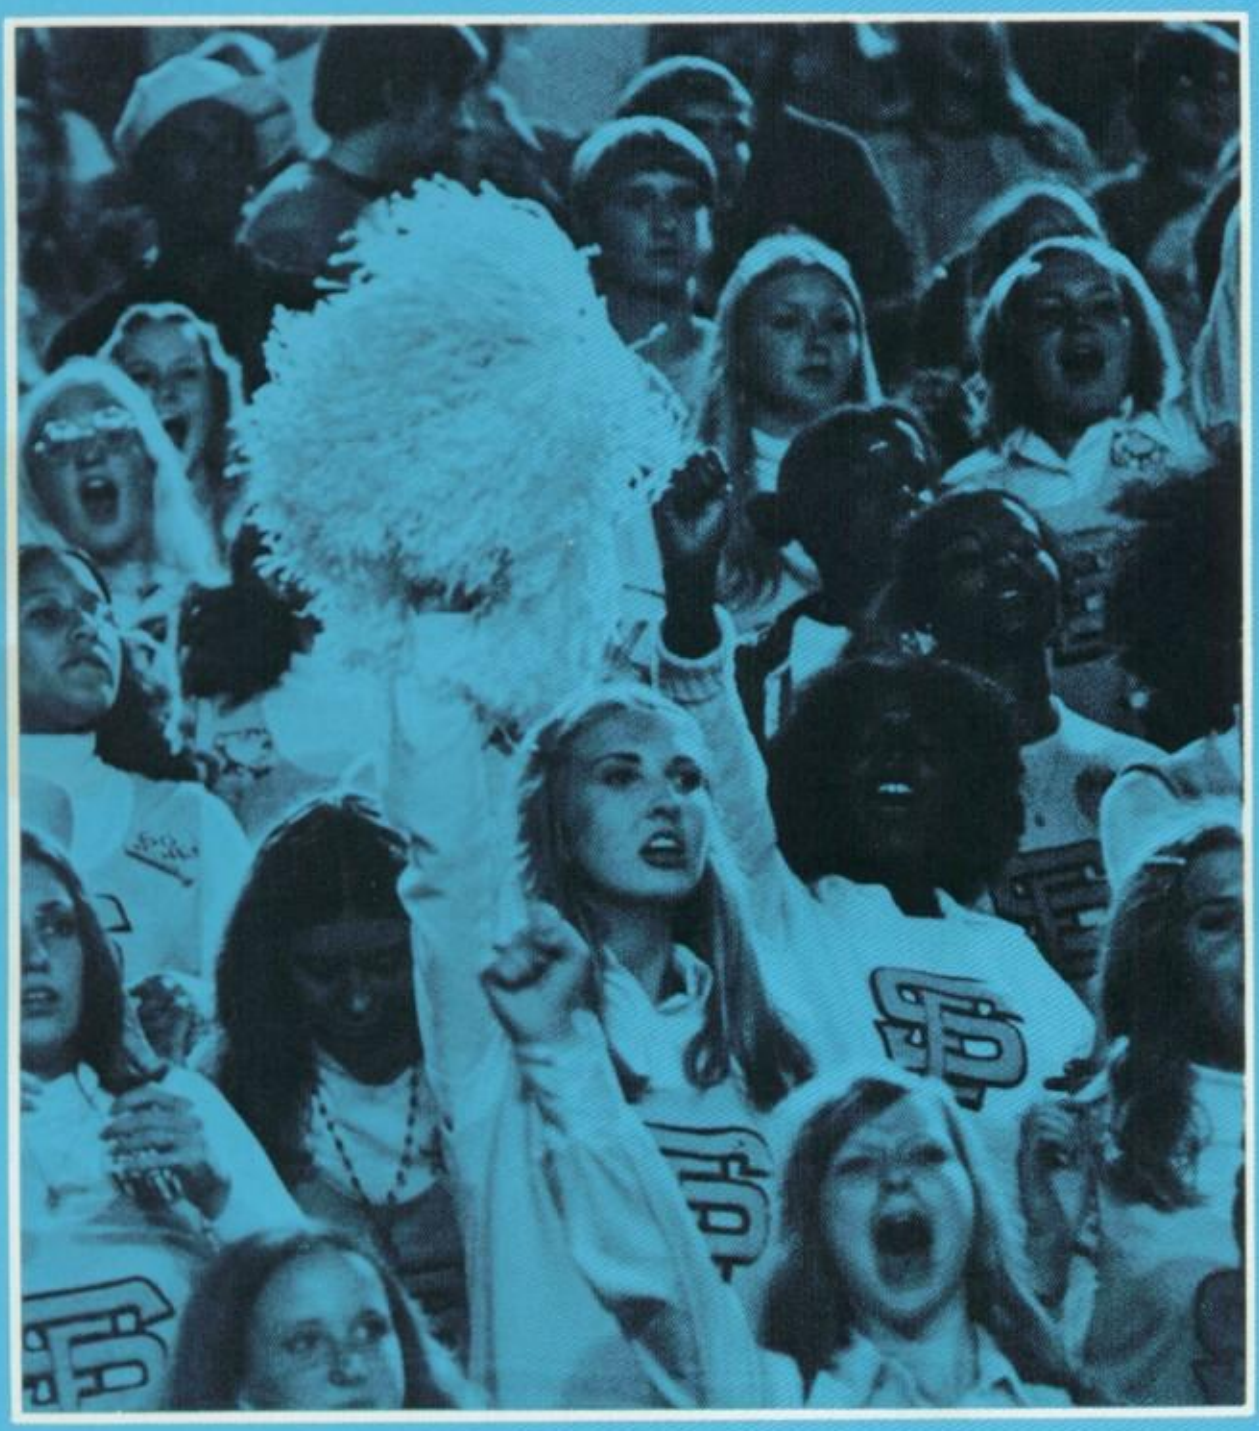
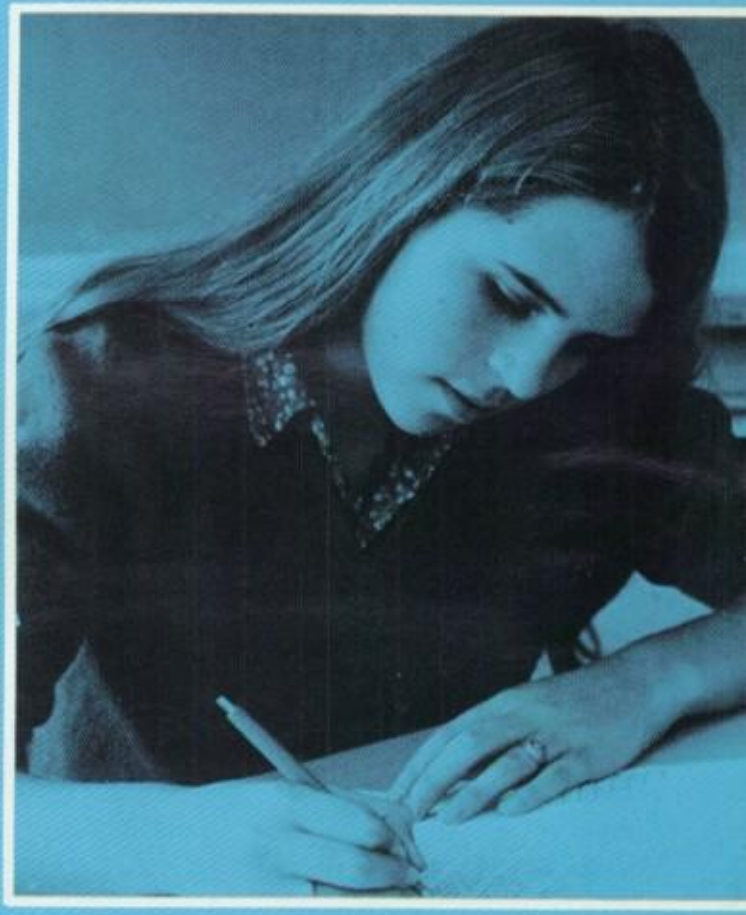
I struggle to become a person.



I work toward an end; meantime I am confined to a process.

I may not reach the goals which I have set for myself.





I desire to increase the boundaries of myself.

Tainted with the air of dirty politics, cries of "four more years" and "McGovern — Shriver '72" echoed across the nation, re-electing Richard Nixon. From the ITT scandal to the Watergate incident, the campaign trail contained party espionage and the intimidations of official power in the service of corporate companions. Although Nixon captured a sweeping victory of 49 states, it is not certain how many people voted against McGovern rather than for Nixon. As all the mud-slinging and name calling increased, the " silent majority" turned inward to escape the confusion and complexity of national concerns.

The young people, however, found a new hope in national leadership with the nomination of George McGovern. Taking the fresh responsibility of the 18 year-old vote seriously, new adults hit the campaign trail for the candidates of their choice. Remarkably the predicted voting trends in favor of liberal candidates proved wrong. Voting returns showed that the 18-21 year-old group split 50-50 in behalf of liberal or conservative candidates.

saying, "I wanted to win in Munich and then quit. I never swam for the glory, only the satisfaction of being the best in the world."

Another young man, Bobby Fischer, had already won this victory at the chessboard against Russian chessmaster Boris Spasky. Fischer captured the world chess championship and a record purse of $250,000. However, he also captured aminosity for his demands which included more money, exclusive use of the hotel swimming pool and tennis court, a new car, and finally the removal of all television cameras during play. In a year when young men were fulfilling their dreams, Jackie Robinson, 53, died. The black man had broken the racial barrier of major league baseball over 25 years ago. Retiring in 1957, he spent the remaining years of his life leading a fight against drug abuse after his own son, an ex-drug addict, had been killed in a car accident. Finally in 1962, Jackie Robinson was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame. Black men and women achieved further fame in the national eye and in personal accomplishments. The struggle for "black pride" and "black power" surfaced in leaders as Shirley Chisolm, Jesse Jackson, Julian Bond, and Rev. Ralph Abernathy. Movies broke the tradition of white supremacy with the production of "Shaft" and "Superfly." Significantly enough, the black woman arose among the great beauties of the world, as the latest styles and beauty products were especially designed for her. A majority,

Each passing year the events and people which shape our lives fall into focus. 1972-1973 was no exception to the excitement, progress, crises and disillusionment which so strongly determined the fates of 210,000,000 individuals.

An all-volunteer army was pin-pointed as the solution to amend the controversial draft issue and appease Vietnam protesters. Although the draft had been slated to end in the spring of 1973, 18 year-olds were still required to register with their local draft boards. Another military controversy arose concerning the addition of a Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps. Some protested the possible military indoctrination into the classroom, while advocates felt the program would be a good training ground for leadership. International politics spawned new horrors at the 1972 Olympics. Eight Palestinians, members of the Arab Black September organization, managed to keep a helpless world in awe by seizing Israeli athletes as hostages to bargain for the freedom of 200 Arab prisoners held in Isreali jails. The terror and threats finally ended in disaster when eight Isreali athletes, eight terrorists and two German police officers were killed. Because of the Munich murders, the concepts of sportmanship were questioned. Amid the Olympic turmoil, swimmer Mark Spitz won an unprecedented seven gold medals, bringing an end to a brilliant amatuer swimming career. Twenty-two year-old Spitz summed up swimming by Elvis Presley, Chuck Berry, Shananah and Bill Hayley and the Comets. Most songs revived in fun also supported the frenzed erotica of Alice Cooper who concentrated on dramatics rather than song. Yet, no one could deny the sensational impact of the Rolling Stones. Stone concerts gave sell-out performances to young people willing to spend up to $25 and a few days in line waiting for ticket box offices to open. But the Stone's future came into jeopardy by frequent heroin busts. Another program that suffered was Apollo. Barely three years since the first lunar landing, Apollo 17 on December 6, 1972, left its earthly bounds in a firey blazon that could be seen from Cuba to North Carolina. Thus came the finale of the entire $5.9 billion Apollo space programs. Why Americans lost interest in the program is a difficult question. The astronauts had been trained, the equipment designed, but due to lack of funding and support, the $5.9 billion program was disbanded. Some condemned the space program as nationalistic propaganda that devoured funds which could be better used for social needs on earth. These same people were named by others as prisoners of limited vision. Perhaps Neil Armstrong's first step in the lunar dust will be well remembered when most of today's controversial issues have become mere footnotes in history.

recently liberated by an equal right's bill, took ardent steps to reshape the form of American society. Taking to the streets and political podiums, housewives and feminists protested unfair prices, discriminating wages and hiring practices, abortion laws and plain sexist idiocacy. Political caucuses and demands caused significant effects upon old party platforms and policies.

Going beyond the talk of feminism, women took action to enter traditionally male fields of law, medicine, business and football, as well as moving into jobs as auto mechanics, plumbers and telephone repairwomen. American men eventually took the sex revolution seriously. Competing for jobs formerly considered fit for only women, males became secretaries, stewardesses, nurses and homemakers. On the quiet and spiritual side, the Jesus movement faded and gradually moving into focus were the sincere believers in Christianity. Some 50,000 such believers, including over 100 Southeast students, gathered in Dallas for Explo '72 led by evangelical leader Billy Graham. Music, which has always been a reflection of the times, moved from the realistic songs of protest to the tones of nostalgia and romance. As bubble gum and acid rock faded, this new mood was characterized by the varied talents of James Taylor, Carol King and Elton John whose soul-rock emphasized the inner-self.

Nostalgia of the '50's and '60's girated itself into the spotlight in the form of

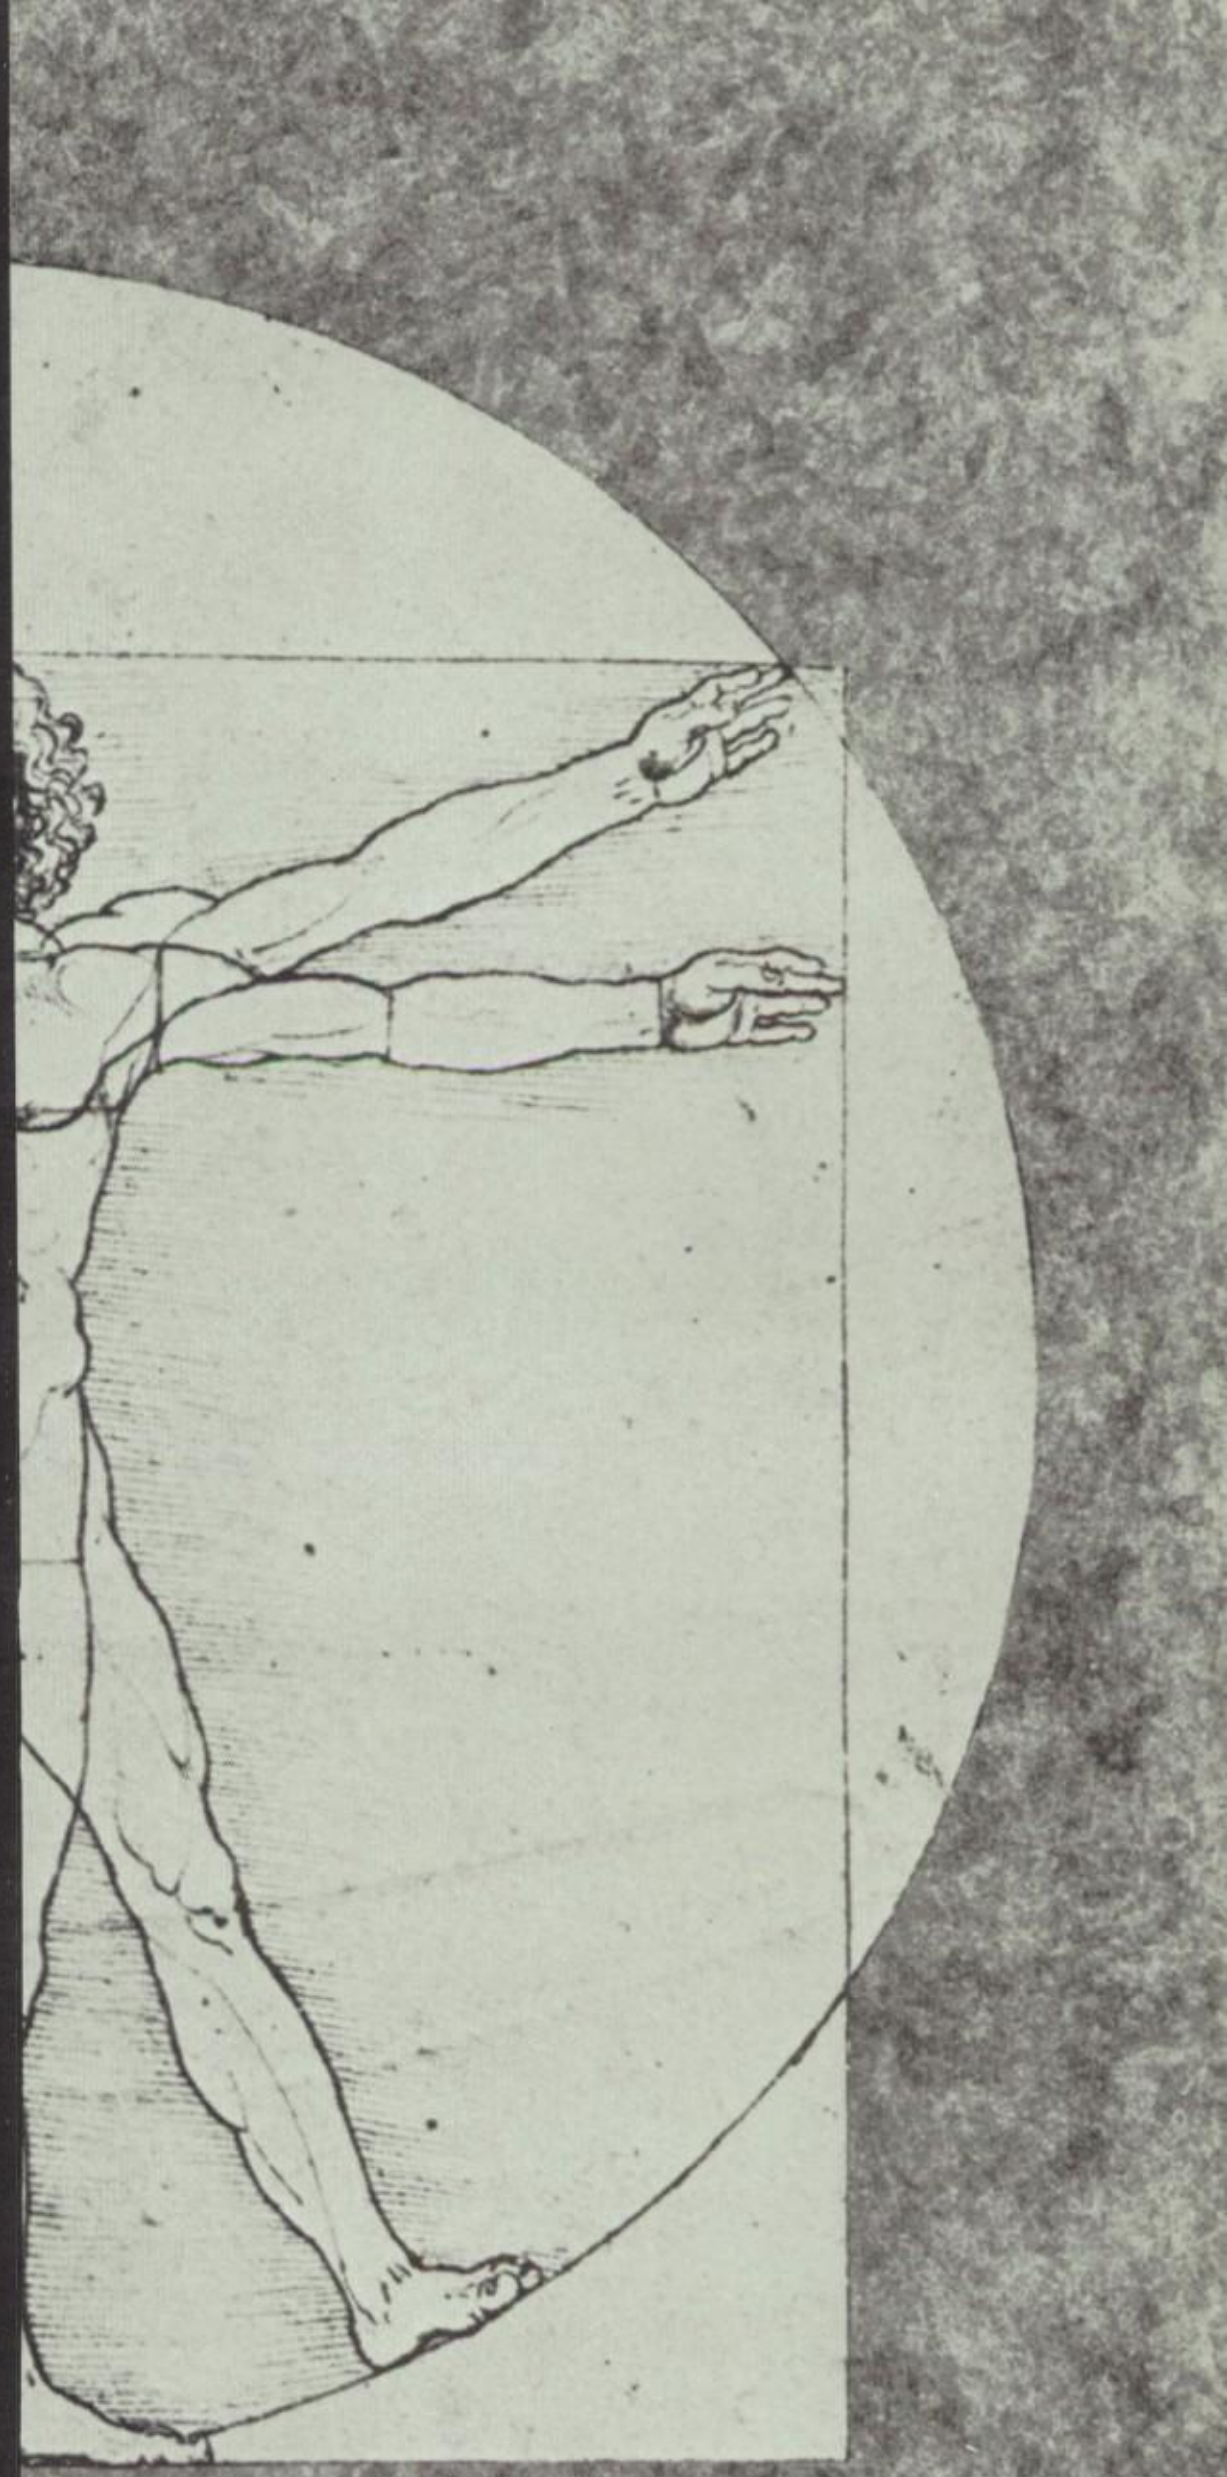
Administration



Dr. Fred Addis

"I don't agree that young people are apathetic. Perhaps they are about some older institutions and school activities," commented Dr. Fred Addis, principal, "but I see a dedication for causes such as ecology, politics, peace and the economy."

"When America gave youth the right to vote, it expressed the confidence adults have in the younger generation. From this confidence, I believe young people will reap greater experiences, become better qualified, and be better prepared for the future," said Dr. Addis.

"Sometimes, though, I think students are growing up too fast," he continued. "Everyone ought to live each day as it comes. I see kids in a hurry to graduate from high school and in a hurry to graduate from college. Then, I wonder why."

In a school enrollment of 2,380, the individuals are often lost among the masses. Dr. Addis: Is he a communicative administrator or a mere figurehead?

"He has personal contact with the students. Everytime I see him, he's got a smile on his face," said Debi Patterson, sophomore.

"Dr. Addis seems to have a reasonable amount of contact with students, but any administrator will seem to be a mere figurehead because some don't think of him as being a normal human being," said Susan Justice, sophomore.

Vice Principal
Gene Franklin

Contributing their effectiveness to the Southeast administration were Vice Principals Mr. Eugene Franklin, Mr. Keith Graham, and Mr. Merlin Keely.

"Do unto others and come to school," the famous slogan of Mr. Franklin, expressed his main concern, that of student responsibilities and departmental policies.

"I believe that Southeast has the staff and facilities to afford each student with a quality education if he is responsible enough to attend classes. The administration is not trying to threaten students with expulsion. Under the current system the decision is the students'. They cannot be forced to stay in school," commented Mr. Franklin.

Mr. Graham, in charge of security and the security patrol, instigated a clamor among student drivers when he oversaw the construction of the parking lot "bumps" last fall. According to the vice-principal, "The sole purpose of the bumps was to prevent any accidents that might have occured due to speeding during rush hours."

In charge of curricular supervision, Mr. Keely said, "My first year at Southeast has been great. The students are very friendly and most say hello to me in the halls. They also seem grateful for the help I can offer and appreciate having someone to listen."

The new vice-principal was responsible for student enrollment, class scheduling, and data processing.

(4) "My activities during a typical day include bookkeeping, depositing money and writing checks." Miss Jane Wilke. (5) "I like working with Southeast students because they are friendly, cooperative and fun." Mrs. Rosalie Shreffler. (6) "I see myself as a disseminator of health information on an individual basis. Equally as important as a friend to the students especially those with health problems." Mrs. Alberta Hutchinson.

(1) "I feel that I'm here to help sophomores and listen to their problems." Mrs. Fanny Thompson (2) "This year our organization has been changed in that three counselors will have one class each to carry through the three years." Mr. Kenneth Clark "I enjoy the daily contact with the students allowing me to keep abreast with their thinking." Mr. Clark Beck "The Guidance Center's purpose is to help students in any way possible to obtain their educational goals." Mrs. June Turner (3) "This year the Guidance Center made the Career Planning Program available to all students." Mr. Richard Elving.

"To keep an accurate record of all student's attendance, and to call all parents when a student has a 3-5 unexcused absences is that I try to do in the attendance office. Mrs. Darlean Caldwell.

Helping students with educational planning, school adjustment, colleges and vocational information and personal problems are the functions of the guidance center, according to Mr. Kenneth Clark, junior guidance counselor.

Shelley Agee, senior feels that, "they helped me on a lot of extra-curricular things. It was great having someone to talk to; it seemed like they cared when it seemed like no one else did."

Mr. Clark Beck is in charge of testing, scholarships and college selections. Mr. Kenneth Clark counselors the juniors, Mrs. Fanny Thompson the sophomores and Mrs. June Turner assists the seniors. Mr. Richard Elving deals with career guidance.

"Library atmosphere should be relaxed and comfortable so that students will feel free to come in and use materials and ask for assistance from the librarians," asserted Mrs. Glenda McNew, head librarian. She believes that the library should be viewed as a study and research center — not a student lounge.

Debi Patterson, sophomore, feels that, "It (the library) is perfect. I love the atmosphere."

Workers stress that the collection of materials in the library is excellent and is heavily used by students and faculty. Students generally find the information in the library adequate for their purposes.

Lori Uhlig, senior, says, "I use the Southeast library more than either the city or WSU (Wichita State University) libraries. Things are better organized and easier to locate."

The main complaint leveled against the library, as explained by sophomore Doug Rohrback, is that, "It has a good collection of books but you need a presidential order to get in."

One of those students who especially enjoys the study center is Peggy Newman, junior, who finds that it is a "nice place to go and think. You can go and get a book and just think."

(1) "In the Audio Visual room students seem to check out more equipment this year than they did last year." Mrs. Teresa Addis, library assistant (2) "The students seem impressed (with the library) and most appear eager to make use of our facilities." Mrs. Sherry Barnard, library assistant (3) "More instructions to classes in the use of the library reference materials (has been instigated this year)." Mrs. Vera Berry, librarian (4) "The most used areas are the reference and periodical sections. Subjects which use the library most are English, social studies, science and home economics." Mrs. Patricia Browne, librarian (5) "Southeast is 'much superior' to other schools' libraries. But the noise level sometimes hinders learning." Mrs. Glenda McNew, head librarian.

"Southeast is a fine high school and I'm proud to be a part of it," said Mr. Jack Lanford. "We really have a great bunch going here. Being around young people makes me feel young," said Mrs. Martha Wheeler.

"During bad weather more students eat here. We have fallen from 1,700 to 700 students," said Mrs. Mabel Willis.

"Our security guards are different from most, because they have the ability to communicate with the students, while maintaining almost full control," said Randy Wolfberg, senior.

A mistake; frustration. But neat erasures are a part of the business training for Debbie Copenhaver, junior.

"One reason I am taking Business Law is because last year, after talking to people who took it, I decided it would be interesting. It helps a person understand his own personal rights. If a person knows his rights it is very hard for someone else to cheat him. Many of the laws in business are surprising and interesting. The class is not boring. It is really valuable and fun," said Chris James, senior. Shorthand is another area in the business department. Shorthand is a practical course that girls can use because it is very relevant in the business world. I like to see girls who are going on to college using shorthand because it helps them in so many ways. It helps them get jobs and also to continue their education," said Mrs. Hulda Stucky. Skills gained from Advanced Typing classes provided assistance to others. "For one week 160 of the Advanced Typing students are doing volunteer work for the March of Dimes by typing envelopes," said Mrs. Mary Lou Budd.

"Every human being has to live in society. Social Studies is the recapitulation of what we do as boys, girls, men, and women in our journey from the cradle to the grave. Social Studies is the examined recapitulation," said Mr. Mel Schroeder. "Government is so important in today's society because it is a most important influence in our lives. Hence each of us should understand something of its operation and functions," said Mr. Louis Bourlard. "By taking government I am gaining a greater sense of American politics," said Richard Harris, senior. Learning about one's heritage is included in Black History. "I like the class because I feel you have to be interested in a class to do well," said junior Alice Calhoun. "In order to become a truly functioning human being, one has to learn to view himself as objectively as possible. The study of sociology surely contributes to this understanding," said Mr. Terry Gire.

Concentration and skills become important to Vicki Cunningham, sophomore, as she learns the sewing techniques.

"We all have to live, therefore we need to teach young ladies how to make a home which is comfortable for the whole family. We are trying to teach these girls things which are useful to know," said Mrs. Gene Pepperkorn. Something new is being tried in the field of occupational economics. For girls who don't expect to go to college, but want to work in a certain field, junior and senior girls get credit for having an outside job in the field she's interested in. "I now know how to apply correctly for a job and how to keep a job. In class around Christmas time we'll be selling candles and other things. This will help us learn how to work a cash register," said Sharon Cole, senior. "To give the students factual information so they can make their own decisions in life is what I try to do. Wise choices always help in making decisions you won't regret later on. I hope to dispel misinformation that students may have about their anatomy and their pschological makeup," commented Mrs. Verna Buchanan, home and family instructor.

"You, as an individual do not know what you will need in the future and consequently a student should be prepared to meet these demands. "Next semester any student who is having trouble with any type of math will be able to go in a lab-type situation and receive help during their study hall or free period. Two proctors who are good math students will be in the room each hour and after school to help those who seek help. Resource and program material will be available," said Mr. John Wolverton. Senior Theron Gable commented, "I have an interest in mathematics and these subjects are the basis for further study. I am also possibly interested in going into the fields of physics and chemistry, although I do have an interest in Commercial Design and Architecture."

While Mrs. June Nyquist prepares to begin class, students share a humorous note.

"Now more than ever, language is so important. If we were unable to speak, how would we get along? With electronic devices such as TV, and radio to spatter us with knowledge, we receive a constant barrage of new words every day. We need to distinguish for what purposes language is good or bad for man," said Mrs. Helen Christy. "So far LAPS has been successful. The program obviously would be more effective if it were carried over to all departments. The teachers' and students' attitudes reflect it could be a good program for coming years," said Mrs. Jeannie Steven. "We like working at our own rate of speed. It is very good to be able to work with groups or individually," contended sophomores Vickie Cunningham and Janice Moore. "Southeast used to be regarded as a community of intellectual elite, a kind of country club, a 'little Harvard', or a place where all the 'rich kids' go. But I don't think this is true any more because Dr. Addis is progressive and is willing to try new things," said Mrs. Sharon Thompson.

With the importance of Language Arts, moving beyond daily conversation is the "main reason for studying a foreign language. Also to be able communicate with people of other nationalities and races. In the long run, it also helps us with our own language," said Mrs. Helen Hiebert. "I feel it is very important in todays world that we, as Americans, learn to speak languages of other people. It (language study) is essential for mutual respect and understanding of other people. Our past experiences with Germany in the last half century have shown the importance of establishing good relationships with them. I think it is fun to be able to talk to somebody else in their own language. Our economical ties with Germany presently make it especially important for us to be able to communicate with them. I feel it is important to be able to read German literature." commented Mr. Marlin Schrag.

If the student does go to college, knowing generalities about plastics could prove to be a pleasing hobby. If more girls would take plastics, this would help them learn how to make all sorts of repairs around the house. They could learn how to repair any kind of light fixture, coffee pots, and toasters. I enjoy teaching this class mainly because of the students. If you did not have the students it would not be worth teaching. I really like to see young students making things," commented Mr. Corwin Vanderford. "Plastics is fun! You can make nice things like lamps and candleholders. I have learned how to work without burning myself and how to fill molds," commented Reggie Littleton, sophomore.

We also learn how to protect the environment," commented Larry Dostert, student teacher. "I think it is important to know about the principles of physics. We cannot even read a newspaper intelligently unless we understand basics. Whether or not we realize it, we use physics in our everyday lives. Decisions on ecology cannot be made without understanding physics. I feel it is important for everybody to understand physics, and the sciencing involved in it," said Mr. Marion Hodges. "By taking physics I now know more about things in general. I'm kinda inquisitive anyway," said David Vornholt, senior. "By being a lab assistant I have gained a better knowledge of the inside preparation," said George Bruce, senior.

"StuCo has the responsibility to question school policy, administrative action, and teaching quality to the point of inaugerating a serious change if it is beneficial to the student body.

"Last year StuCo misused its influence over the library policy. Because of this very costly lesson, StuCo avoided making an all-out confrontation over policy, but has instead tried to work with the administration for changes," said Russie Dennis, StuCo president.

Racial disputes, although held to a minimum, involved StuCo efforts. A major upset was the Homecoming election.

"The main problem was one of misunderstanding. Out of twelve finalists, four of the girls were black," commented Russie. However, the final six involved no blacks and "false rumors about the handling of the election and the voting of prejudiced whites resulted.

"More people are involved and members have respect toward priorities, what needs to be done first," contended Russie.

The only separating barrier we have is between those who would like StuCo to be socially oriented against those who want it to be school-academically oriented. We have tried to maintain a balance between the two.

"My hardest problem is trying to get interesting things people would be willing to participate in. Car washes, the student lounge, and selling concessions at basketball games have all been good money-making projects. The main problem is getting StuCo interested enough in projects to make them work," commented senior Shelley Agree, director of finances.

"I think StuCo has made alot of progress since last year. The student lounge has not had to be closed once. Russie has good communication with the administration. I think we have solved many problems for this year and also some for next year," said Randy Wolfberg, senior.

"What has StuCo done? Except for ringing bells and making money at basketball games, nothing has gone on that I know about. Some people are satisfied with what goes on, but I just don't think anything does. People gripe about the most minute things; personal petty things they bring up at meetings," commented senior Steve Musick.

"Trash has not been the problem it was last year," said junior Diana Elliot, director of student lounge. "Because of open lunch, we're not making as much money as we did last year," said Diana.

Are sophomore representivitives lost that first year?

"I don't think being a sophomore has hindered me. The juniors and seniors have done a good job of explaining what has gone on in past years and what is going on now. Everybody has tried to help and cooperate. They try to see our way of seeing things," contended Kim Brown, sophomore.

ROTC courses, students smoking, and yearbook picture policies were among the topics discussed by Youth Council with the Board of Education.

"I think that the Board is really interested," said Karen Huston, junior.

Concentrating more on community affairs the YWCA sponsored Youth Board was concerned with political procedures.

"By being a member of Youth Board I have become more aware of what goes on in the community," remarked Andrea Rosen, senior.

The Black Coalition tried to make opportunities equal for all students.

"We can say a lot of things in the meetings that Black kids otherwise would not have a chance to say," commented Mickey Winesberry, senior.

Composed of members from all ethnic groups, Student Advisory Board analyzed problems and tried to improve them.

"I learned that people work harder when they are working for a single goal," said senior, Cecile Kellenbarger, Press Club secretary.

Press Club, operating for the first time, raised funds needed for publications. Quill and Scroll, the honor section of Journalism, initiated 26 members March 8.

The National Forensic League was designed to promote interest in the interscholastic debate, oratory and public speaking. Also in the speech area, Thespians performed a one-act play throughout the junior highs.

"The one-acts served as the turning point for making the group active," commented senior, Karma Mace, president.

Customs and cultures of various countries involved language club members. Meetings, dinners, soccer games, and skits were all included in club functions.

"Although organizations of this type in the past have not always been successful, I feel that this year French Club has really been good. We have had some exciting programs and members have taken a greater interest in the club's activities," remarked Jim Bogle, senior, vice-president.

Mary Stucky, senior, president, looked on French Club as "necessary for anyone taking French. It enlivens the study of the language and provides opportunities to learn about its many features."

German Club was also on the move. The group viewed films and held a number of dinners for elderly people during the Christmas season. Dressed in native costumes, members provided the entertainment and were the hosts for the dinners.

"I really like it. I have learned more about Germany and I enjoyed being with the kids," commented Evan Thiessen, sophomore.

Julie Beren, sophomore, president, also feels that Spanish Club is a learning experience.

Besides individual efforts in each group, the International Banquet held November 30 brought further unity to the already tightly-knit linguist clubs.

Conducting experiments in extra sensory perception and applying symbolic logic to dreams occupied Science Club members.

"I've grown up a lot. I've learned to work with people and my employer," said Jan Jones, senior in reference to Office Education. This club, synonymous with the class, taught students secretarial skills. The group was awarded the title of Chapter of the Year in state competition held on March 1 and 2 on the campus of Emporia State Teachers College.

Unnoticed by the majority of the student body, the Sign Language Club members concentrated on communicating with the deaf. Aspirations were to develop a group of classroom helpers to aid the hard-of-hearing.

KLOK, Southeast's exclusive radio station, completed its first entire year of broadcasting in the halls and rooms of the school. Operated and maintained by the Radio Club, its 43 members served as disc jockeys, public relations men and technical supervisors.

"It's been great for me. I've learned a lot about the technical aspects of radio and about how to project over the air. It's really a lot of fun and a fantastic experience," commented Rod Learned, senior, general manager of the club.

The Chess Club, under new leadership each nine weeks, saw its most active year since the club originated. The members played each Thursday, held a tournament and participated in a number of outside tournaments.

"You have a definite game once a week and the competition sharpens your game, "esplained John Tretbar, junior, one-term president of the club.

On its second year, Bicycle Club, has tried to stay active during the winter as well as the fall and spring.

The group cycled on several short excursions and visited bicycle shops to learn more about the mechanical aspects of the bike.

"It was a good chance to meet fellow bicyclers and I learned a lot about my bike. I really had fun riding with the club," stated Jeff Miller, junior, president.

Composed of two members from each class plus a president, the Pep Club Cabinet worked as the nucleus of the Pep Club. The girls planned various projects including making posters each week, helping an unfortunate family, and sponsoring spirit dinners.

"It was a lot of work. I was surprised at all the planning that had to be done for one project to get off the ground. But it was fun and I liked it," stated Miss Freeland, senior.

Sea Sprites geared their entire year around perfection in the spring water show.

It (Sea Sprites) has survived over many years because some of the girls have taken water ballet outside of the school and want to show others that it's fun," said Shelley Agee, senior, president.

Sponsoring a booth at the All-School Project, ringing the bell at football games and promoting money-raising projects occupied Lettermen's Club.

"To organize and to support spirit of Southeast's athletics is the goal. The Lettermen's Club is made up of and encourages all sports at Southeast," stated George Bruce, senior, president.

For the first time, the Varsity Cheerleaders were composed of eight girls rather than six.

Hours of practice went into the cheers that were performed during basketball and football games. But all the hard work was worth it.

According to Rogie Harter, senior, co-head cheerleader, "It's been a great experience. I've had a lot of fun.

The B-team pepsters were responsible for cheering at the B-team and sophomore basketball and football games.

Dayna Eubanks, sophomore, commented, "I really like cheering. I try to raise-up some spirit and I have a good time."

Primary responsibilitity for supporting the minor sports went to the Banner Girls. The girls also performed routines during the halftimes of home basketball and football games.

"It was really great. I learned a lot about people and had a lot of fun," commented Debi Shellenberger, senior, Banner Girl.

With the help of these groups, spirit seemed to be on the "up." There was a greater attendance at games and minor events than in recent years.

Paced by returning senior letterman Kent Adrian and junior Kendall Smith, the Southeast Harriers got off to a fast start but were slowed by late-season illnesses. Kent, junior Tim Litchet and sophomore David White were unable to compete in the Buffs' final three meets.

Southeast's best hope was in Kent. "We had as good of a chance to win City as anybody did, if everybody would have stayed healthy," commented the runner.

His best time of the season was 9:44 in the North Invitational, when he placed second individually.

Still healthy and improving through the season was Kendall. He was tops for the Buffs in the City League Meet with a sixth-place finish and a 10:10 time. A week later Kendall again placed sixth in regional competition.

"I was disappointed with the fact that everybody got sick or injured. We could have done a lot better and been closer to the top." he said.

At the State Meet held in Manhattan, Kendall was Southeast's only representative.

"It was the hardest course to run; I didn't know what to expect."

Supporting a 7-2 regular season record, Southeast closed out one of the most successful campaigns in recent years.

With Athletic Director Don Lamb taking over the duties of Mr. Marvin Vandaveer, who retired suddenly after the West game, the Buffs rallied into contention throughout the remainder of the season.

Climaxing the City League struggle was the chance for Southeast to win the title outright; the first time since 1961.

On a chilly fall night at Cessna Stadium, Southeast met North in what turned out to be the most exciting game of the year.

With seniors Laverne Smith, John Alefs, and Ron Darmon leading the offensive charge and Tom Mead, Steve Musick, and Rocky Both heading the defense, the Buffs battled the favored Redskins to a 13-13 tie at the end of regulation time. Both teams went on to score touchdowns in overtime; but it was the Redskins who prevailed with the extra point for a 20-19 victory, dropping Southeast into second place.

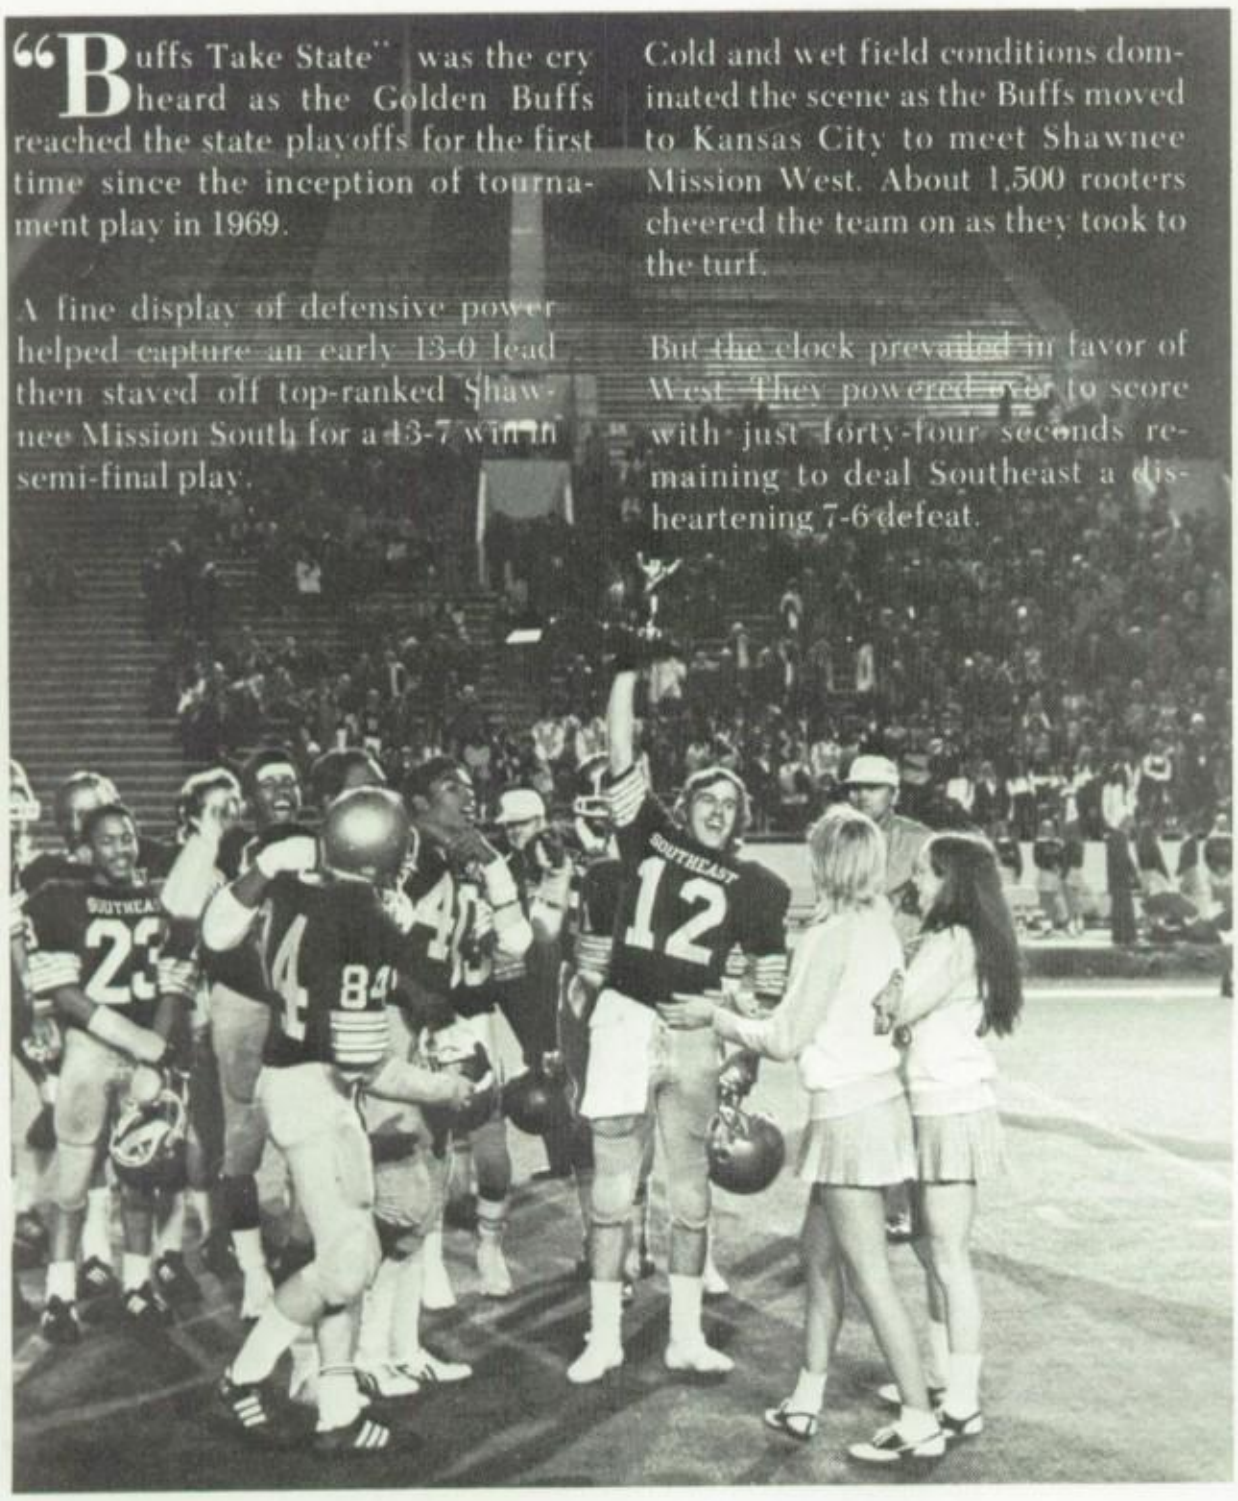
For those who did not have the opportunity to start varsity games or saw limited action, B-team and sophomore games were played so these future varsity hopefuls could gain experience.

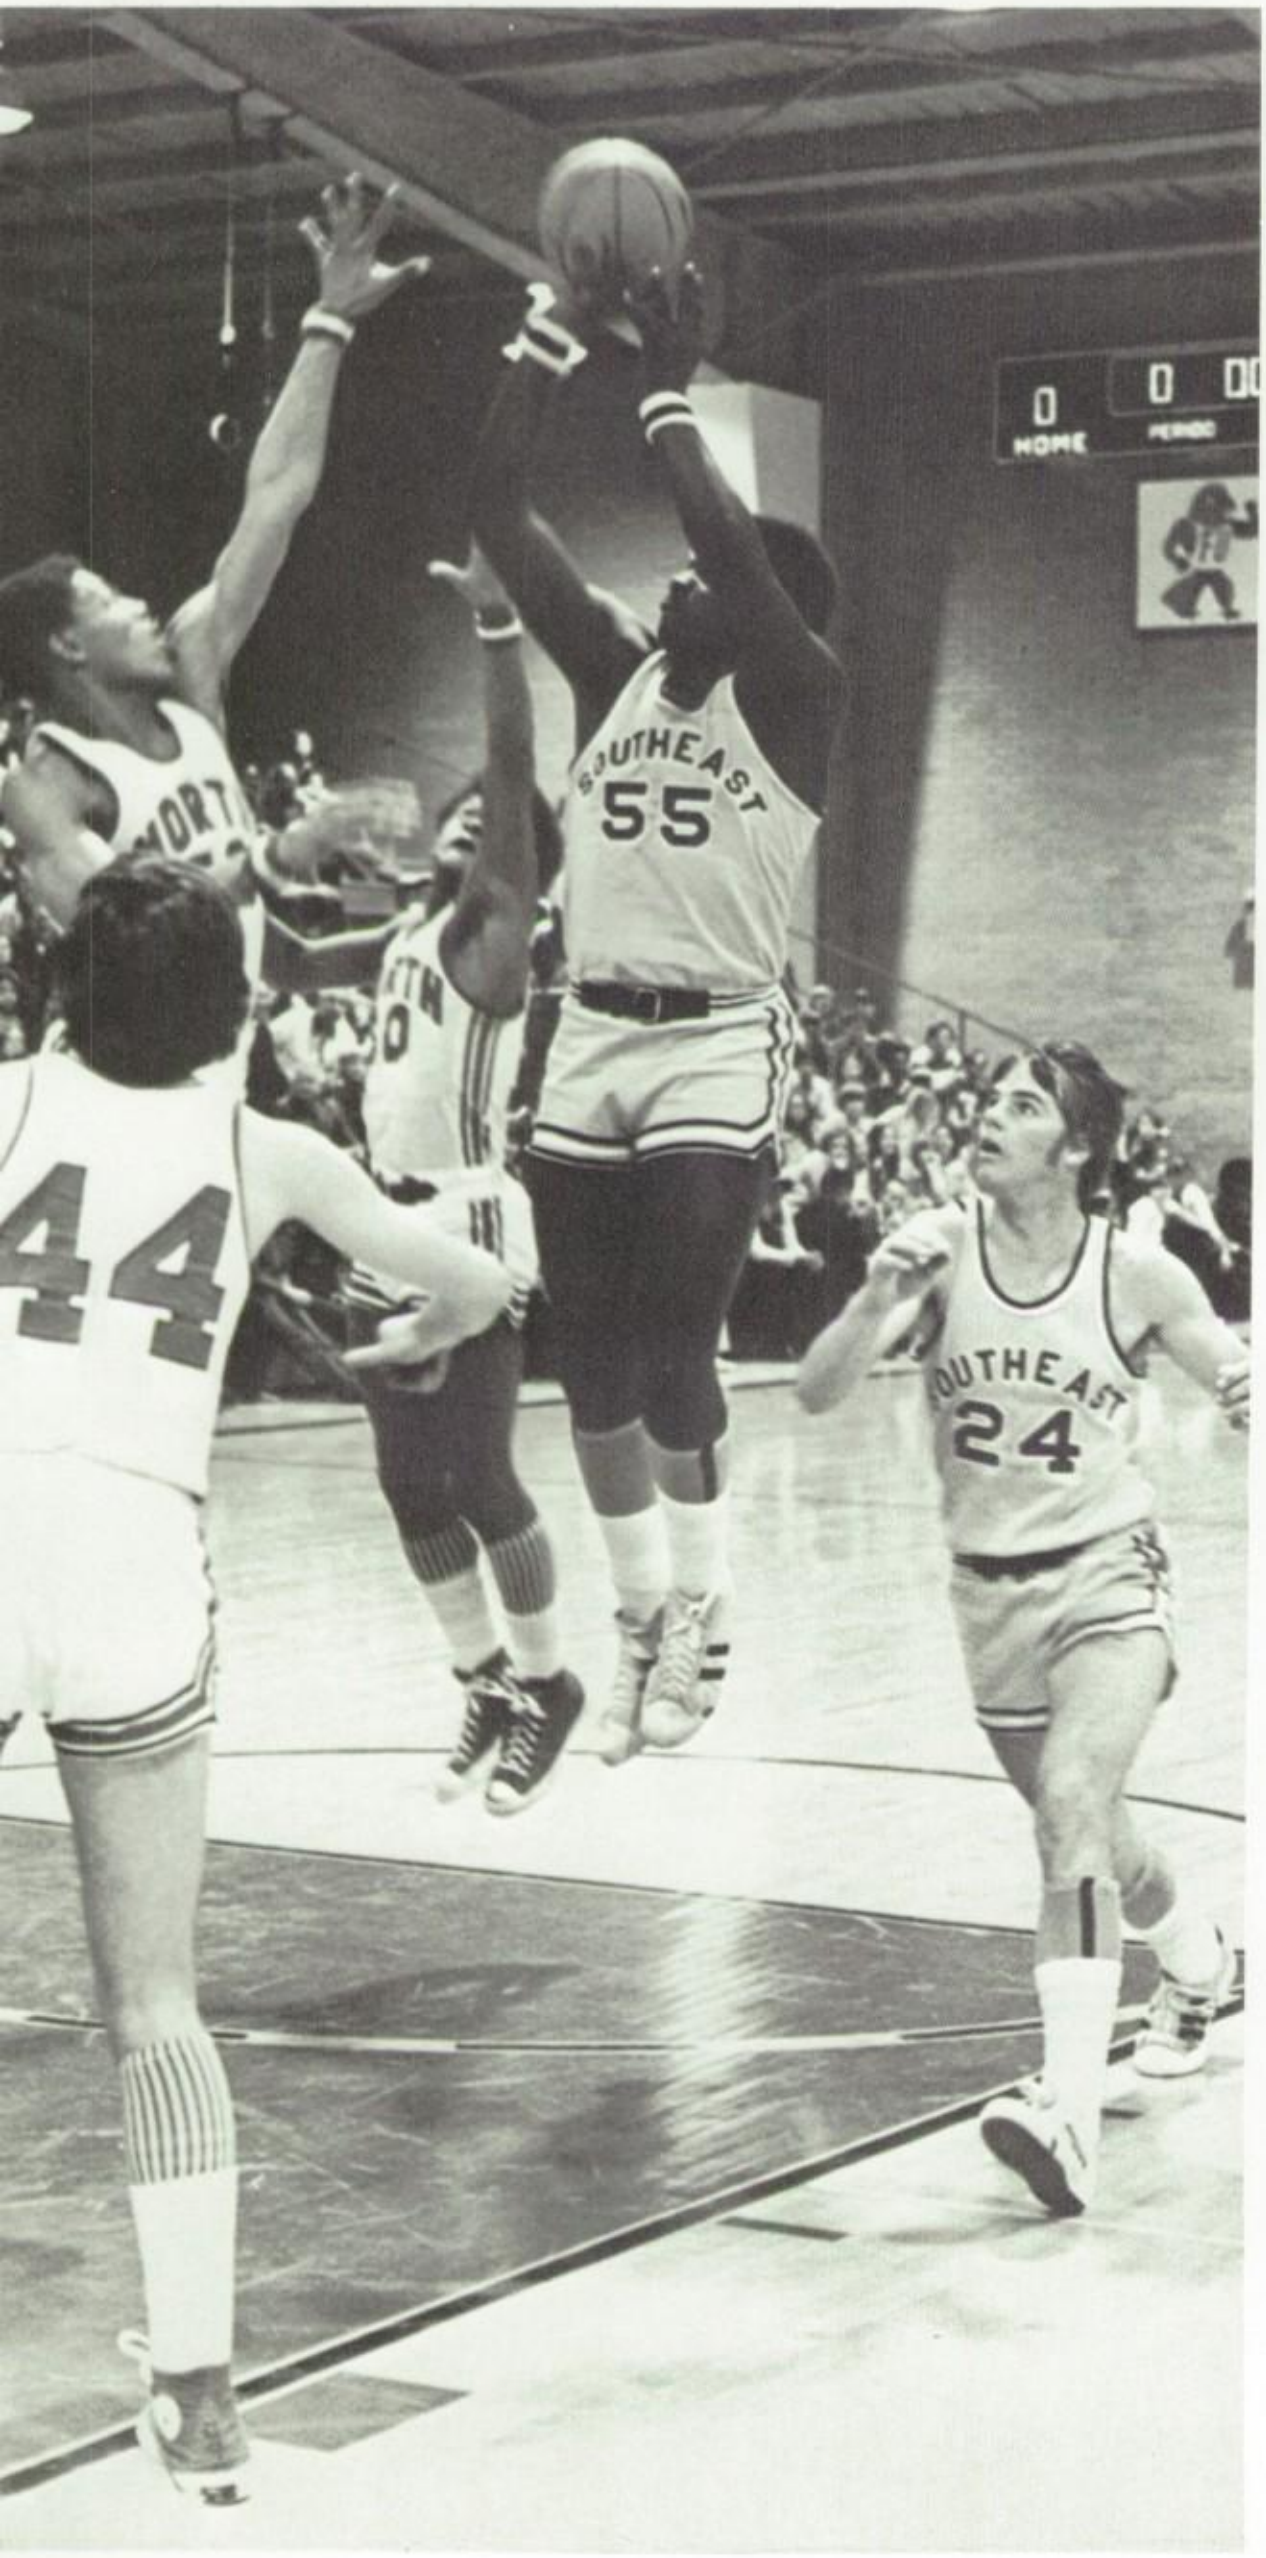
"Buffs Take State" was the cry heard as the Golden Buffs reached the state playoffs for the first time since the inception of tournament play in 1969.

A fine display of defensive power helped capture an early 13-0 lead then staved off top-ranked Shawnee Mission South for a 13-7 win in semi-final play.

Cold and wet field conditions dominated the scene as the Buffs moved to Kansas City to meet Shawnee Mission West. About 1,500 rooters cheered the team on as they took to the turf.

But the clock prevailed in favor of West. They powered over to score with just forty-four seconds remaining to deal Southeast a disheartening 7-6 defeat.





(1) Senior center Ray Murry (55) goes high over a defender for a short jump shot while senior forward Scott Banks moves in for the rebound. (2) Laverne Smith, senior, (33) puts up a shot after driving through defenders.

Ranked number-one in the pre-season polls, Southeast cagers had trouble putting it all together and fell short of the spot.

The Buffs opened the season with an impressive 76-55 win over Heights. A week later, however, North High put up a tough 1-3-1 defense, stopping Southeast 74-66.

Ray Murry, senior, led the cagers, along with returning senior starters James Johnson, Laverne Smith, and Ed Southern. Scott Banks, senior, filled the forward spot.

Remaining consistent proved to be tough for the Buffs. After handily defeating North 71-62 in the North Invitational, the teams squared off a week later at the Friends Gymnasium. North again stopped the cagers 68-44 in an important City League contest.

Coming back with victories over West, Carroll and Kapaun, Southeast fell to Hutchinson and then to South to end City League title hopes.

Receiving the first state competition trophy since 1963 for a third place finish in the East Invitational, Buff gymnasts came on as a vastly improved squad.

Led by returning lettermen George Bruce and Tom Ludwick, the acrobats continually placed high in meets, pulling down victories in dual meets against West and Heights. Coming on strong were juniors Chris Humphrey in the floor exercise routines, Kelly Toombs on the parallel bars and vaulting, and Jeff Ladd on the still rings.

"Experience of the upperclassmen and the depth provided by the juniors and sophomores, were the keys to our success," said George.

Ending with a victory over East, the girls' tennis team, coached by Mrs. Betty Fugit, capped off the regular season undefeated in seven City League contests.

Led by senior Kathy Spines and junior Sherri Abderhalden the team went up against tough competition at regionals, held at Ark City, where all Southeast members were ousted by the second round of play.

Led by seniors Peggy Clark and Marla Berry, and coached by Mrs. Donna Harris, the girls' volleyball team went through a tough and disappointing season.

Throughout the campaign poor ball coordination, service or "no desire to win" were key problems for the team.

Shooting for a third straight City championship, the gymnastics team, under the direction of Miss Carol Morhbacher, opened the season with high hopes.

Again leading the Buffs were all-around specialists Pam Goodman and Jenny Fooshe, seniors, and Mary Weniger, junior.

ulminating a record season for the girls' basketball team was a second-place trophy in the regional tournament.

Led by senior Peggy Clark, and juniors Terry Newman, Mary Mead, and Lynn Matassarin, the team concluded the year with a 5-2 mark.

South handed the Buffs their first setback in five games. South was also responsible for knocking the Buffs out of state competition by beating them 55-31 in regionals.

Mary, moving from basketball to softball, took to the mound at the various games.

With Tammy Gilpin, sophomore, leading the pack, the track team was coached by Mr. Arlandus Lowe.

Drilling for half-time performances at home football games, the twirlers and drum major devoted a minimum of one hour practice time per day.

"They had tryouts in the spring and two teachers and the Wichita State University feature twirler judged us," recalled Tamara Pankey, senior.

By practicing twice a week during the summer, the girls put routines together in time for the first game. The girls were also involved in a statewide twirling group.

"Being the drum major was fun but a lot of responsibility," stated Teal Dakan, junior. "It's exciting!"

Climaxing with the State Music Festival, the Instrumental Music Department provided entertainment at games, concerts, and various other functions.

Senior Bill Malone commented, "I think that it is the best music department in the city except I wish that we had more instrumental classes and additional teachers."

The largest instrumental music group at Southeast, Concert Band, had ninety-five members. In addition to performances in fall, Christmas, and spring concerts, the band competed in the State Music Festival.

Jennifer Regan, junior, said "It was a lot of fun, but it was work too."

Concert Band became Marching Band in the fall when they performed at halftimes of all home football games. They also performed in marching contests and parades.

Richard Moss, senior, stated, "This year, without exception was the best year the Marching Band has performed."

Mr. Luttrell said, "The audience reaction was great, much better than last year."

The eighteen-member Stage Band was composed of top performers from the Concert Band. They played at conventions and at jazz clinics and festivals.

"It's really shaping up pretty well, we don't have as many problems as we did last year," observed Tim Standlee, junior.

Made up of the top wood-winds and brass in the school, the Orchestra was composed of the "cream of the crop," according to Mr. Luttrell.

"It's been good that we've had the opportunity to play the music of the great composers. It's a great experience to try to play what they've written," stated Phil Butin, senior.

Patricia Wyatt, senior, added, "Since Mr. Luttrell worked so hard last year, the orchestra is much larger than it was. It is a lot more fun to play with the group since so many people at Southeast are interested."

The Pep Band was composed of twenty-eight members, chosen through audition. They played at pep assemblies, pep rallies, and at basketball games.

"I think that Pep Band is a lot of fun. It really helps generate school spirit," commented Kim Reiboldt, senior.

Christmas Vespers, the Vocal Department's annual holiday program, was presented the Sunday preceding Christmas vacation by Choraleers, Modernaires, Girls' Ensemble and Sophomore Choir.

Vespers consisted of a medley of Christmas music. "There was a lot of variety in the music, from sacred carols to jazz," stated senior Denise Bulleigh.

Performing on stage with the Choraleers was the Girls' Ensemble.

"We came from different sides of the stage carrying candles," said Susan Bond, senior. "It did a lot for the effect of our performance."

"I'm glad they gave us the chance to perform; we were the only small group performing," added Linda Baughman, junior. The Modernaires and Sophomore Choir sang their selections from the balcony of the auditorium.

Co-directing the Choraleers and Sophomore Choir were Mr. Vernon Nicholson, vocal music director, and Miss Harva Mathews, student director from Wichita State University. Mrs. Sandy Miller conducted the Modernaires and Girls' Ensemble.

Stage decorations, created by the Art Department under the direction of Mr. Howard Jacob and Mr. Don Weddle, were a combination of arches with purple and gold lighting.

"The Art Department did a really good job, the arches made it look like a cathedral," commented Susan Fahnestock, sophomore.

Bringing recognition to Southeast, the Vocal Music Department performed before civic and social groups, and climaxed the year with Choralesque.

"All groups sing the same kind of music. From rock, blues and popular to the more serious types," stated Mr. Vernon Nicholson, vocal instructor.

Madrigals, a group of twenty-four mixed voices chosen through audition, performed for various groups throughout the state.

Senior Debbie Youle commented, "In Madrigals, we are a smaller group. Mr. Nicholson is more of a friend than a teacher."

Chosen on the basis of performance and dependability, the Choraleers sang at conventions, concerts, and capped their schedule with a trip to Denver, Colorado.

"Our trips help us to make new friendships, and then sing as a unit, not just singly," said Kyle Timmerman, junior.

"The twenty-five Junior Misses must maintain their grades throughout the year even through their many performances," stressed Mr. Nicholson.

Jill Osment, senior, said, "We really enjoy the choreography. The audiences love it and we get such a kick out of doing it."

Sophomore Choir members, selected through teacher recommendations, sang at fall, Christmas, and in state contests. Performing at school concerts and programs, the Sophomore Girls' Ensemble had eighteen members.

"This is really a training ground to prepare them for their junior and senior years," commented Mr. Nicholson, in regard to the Sophomore Mixed Ensemble.

Modernaires sang popular, contemporary types of music.

"They've shown a steady improvement," stated Mrs. Sandy Miller, vocal Instructor.

Mrs. Miller's other vocal group, Girls Ensemble, had twenty members.

"They're very good and just fun to work with," said Mrs. Miller, "They are an excellent group of girls."

A change from letterpress to offset printing of the newspaper and a tip-in in the yearbook were the major innovations.

"In the past, yearbooks have been considered irrelevant. We have attempted to provide relevance by embracing the entire school community and the issues that concern Southeast students, stated Mary Stucky, senior.

"I've learned a lot from journalism; how to meet deadlines and most important how to work with people. We had a good staff, but a lot of the credit must be given to Mrs. Simons for all the help she gave everyone. And special thanks to Christy!" said Casey Scott, senior.

"Even if I don't go further into journalism, I feel I've gained. The staff was great in their willingness to work many hard hours. I thank Mrs. Simons for devoting so much time and effort in working with us. Most of all, I thank Casey for his faith in me and for his dedication in making the Stampede a serious and creative publication," asserted Jim Bogle, senior.

Victory predominated in two areas on the cold, rainy October 20 as Southeast won its Homecoming Game against Carroll, and Nancy Utter won the queen's crown.

"Homecoming was a memorable experience, not only in sharing in all the excitement and happiness, but in learning about people and their different opinions. Hopefully, someday homecoming will be an honor that everyone can appreciate," said Nancy.

Diverse opinions posed questions as to the value of this traditional event.

"Homecoming is a significant and meaningful experience to those who participate. It's too bad that many people feel that they have the authority and responsibility to shatter symbols meaningful to others. Maybe somewhere they have lost sight that true joy is experienced through giving, whether it be a homecoming crown or of yourself," stated George Bruce, senior.

George was the escort for Queen Nancy. Finalists were seniors Rogie Harter and Debbie Shellenberger, escorted by seniors Craig Alley and Rick Hall, respectively.

"Homecoming was a new and thrilling experience for me. Perhaps its greatest benefit was the awareness I gained from people's feelings and concern toward me," remarked Rogie.

"A lot of beautiful feelings grew out of the miserable weather that night," asserted Debbie.

Opinions prevailed from those outside the royalty party.

"Dashii Day," a collection for sickle cell anemia, and a Soul Food Dinner highlighted Black Heritage Week, February 5 through 10. For three weeks prior to the event, Mr. Bruce Watson's Black History class broke into small groups to study sickle cell anemia, a genetic blood disease for which there is no known cure.

"My observations show that there is a lot of positive reinforcement by the students," remarked Mr. Watson.

Teachers were encouraged to examine black heritage with their classes.

"The reports as a whole helped to keep one thing foremost in my mind, something that, as a black, I should never forget. It helped me see that in more ways than one the black race has contributed. We've had our hand in sports, literature, music and many other things; and because of this we can be proud of ourselves," stated Dwight Martin, sophomore, in regard to the activities in his English class.

Rock sounds vibrated the walls of the gymnasium on January 16 as Student Council staged its first rock concert. An estimated 200 people "grooved" to the music of The Mood, a local band. An informal atmosphere prevailed, as students felt free to dance, walk around, or simple sit on the floor and absorb the sounds.

Deena Stover, junior, remarked, "I think the band was simply fantastic."

At the evening of entertainment, no admission was charged for Southeast students. Although he thought that the three-hour event should have been publicized more, Russie Dennis, Student Council president, felt that it was a success.

"This concert was just the start of other things we want to do for the students at Southeast," Russie stated.

"This year will differ only with the kids, songs and arrangements. Other than this it will be the same as in the past, a musical variety" stated Mr. Vernon Nicholson, program head, concerning the 1973 production of Choralesque.

The cast, chosen in late January, performed the show April 12 through 14 in the auditorium. Master of Ceremonies was senior Rod Learned with Gwen McMillian, junior, and senior Jerre Byrd acting as Mistresses of Ceremonies.

southeast advanced drama classes

Featuring advanced drama students, "The Brick and the Rose," was presented to the junior English classes on February 15 and 16. In lieu of the traditional "Spoon River Anthology," the class chose this drama.

" 'The Brick and the Rose' was a challenge and a new experience introducing a new type of drama to us — concert reading," stated senior Sharon Dillon.

" 'The Readers' Theater is new to our group and it's exciting, but it is a lot of hard work. Sometimes in school, you go through classes without knowing the people around you, but in this class you have to get involved or it's no good," said Sherry Ruberson, senior.

Replacing Miss Ruth McCormick as drama instructor at the end of first semester, Mrs. Susan Andrews directed this first 1973 production.

Miss McCormick took a leave of absence to join the cast of an off-Broadway play.

"The kids are great in developing their characters. It was exciting to see the play progress," concluded Mrs. Andrews.

A psychological play concerning two emotionally distrubed adolescents led the year's dramatic productions. "David and Lisa" was presented on November 16 and 17. Dale Swafford, senior, portrayed David, a boy with a mania against being touched. Lisa, the victim of a split personality, was played by Karma Mace, senior.

Dale stated, "David was really a hard character for me to do. On the surface he seemed to be normal, but one minute he was calm, and the next he was a raving maniac. It was hard not to be melodramatic about the entire thing."

"Lisa is a little girl, rhyming, hopping and jumping around. Then the next minute she is real serious and ladylike and she does not talk at all. It's just a complete change of emotion in about ten seconds," said Karma.

Miss Ruth McCormick, drama instructor, directed her third year students in James Reach's play.

"The drama was a good experience for everyone in the cast. I felt high school students could relate to the story," asserted Miss McCormick.

Junior Cary Mitchell was lighting director for the fifty-two scene play.

"It was pretty hard because of all the changing scenes. But it was a lot of fun. I was really pleased with the outcome," commented Cary.

"Because their roles were smaller, it seemed that many of the other kids didn't think that they could develop their characters. But one line can tell the audience what was wrong with them. So, every kid was a separate character, and that was what makes the play so good; because you could identify with so many different kinds of people," concluded Dale.

Gales of laughter greeted young actors in beginning drama as they presented an evening of one-act comedies.

The productions included "Whodunit," a detective farce; "Home to Mother," a case of marital mix-up and duplicate wives; "Sob Stuff," a comedy revolving around a newspaper; and Bachelor of the Year," in which women do the proposing. "The Necklace," based on the Guy De Maupassante short story, was the only drama given.

"These plays are presented primarily to give first-year drama students experience on stage," stated Miss Ruth McCormick, drama instructor.

Although young dramatists auditioned for roles, each student in the two classes was given an opportunity to work on the plays in some way.

Nancy Bogard, junior, commented, "We have a good teacher and we all know she cares. Miss McCormick can be critical, but she is a perfectionist."

Resolved: That governmental financial support for all public elementary and secondary education in the United States should be provided exclusively by the Federal Government.

This was the topic that was explored pro and con, by high school debaters. Individual and group research, as well as out-of-school work and practice, were required to perfect debating techniques.

Sabrina Wells, senior, experienced debater, said, "It was a little more difficult to debate this year's topic than last year's, because it involved knowing the taxing system."

Thirteen trophies were garnered by the experienced and novice debaters during the debating season. Experienced debaters took third place in regionals and advanced to state competition, again placing third.

"Before regionals everyone just worked together in teams of two, but when regionals came, we all started working together as a squad," asserted Vicki Childers, senior, experienced debater.

Susan Mann, senior, experienced debater, remarked, "The most enjoyable tournament I went to this year was at Kansas Weslyan, when we went to state."

Although debating ended with the first semester, individual speech tournaments filled the latter portion of the school year.

"I really enjoyed debating this year. It took a lot of work, but every minute of it was worth it, because I learned so much and had so much fun. Mr. Specht is a fantastic coach, because he really cares about everyone on the squad, and he gives so much of himself to debate," said Janet Smith, senior, novice.

John Cowles, sophomore, novice, stated, "Even though some of our best experienced debaters are leaving, I think the novice team will be able to fill their places."

"Southeast is a beginning. It's a new school, with new and different people." Lucy Wickencamp, sophomore

"Southeast means an opportunity to reach our goals in life. We understand our abilities and learn how to get along." Dayna Eubanks, sophomore

"I think that Southeast will help me to plan my life and career ahead of time." April Kennedy, sophomore

When Kent Ewonus, sophomore class president, began the year he felt his hardest problem was to "bring the sophomores together as a class."

Said Kent, "The juniors and seniors are a group, but the sophomores are divided up into three: Coleman, Curtis, and Robinson."

The sophomores began to show signs of unity when Homecoming rolled around.

"The students really got involved and gave up a lot of time," commented the president.

Another method of upholding unity, Kent said, is to have "Student Council get done what the students want."

He was very much in favor of holding a rock concert and thought the Southeast Fun Night was a good way to get the student body together.

Another problem that concerned Ewonus was that of the sophomore misuse of open lunch.

"They don't seem to realize how hard the juniors and seniors worked last year for open lunch. I noticed the terrible trash problem and how many are coming late to class after lunch," explained Ewonus.

The young student leader sees as his main objective to clean up the apathy toward Student Council.

"Student Council can never be effective unless the students get involved."

(1) Kent Ewonus, sophomore class president, strives for class unity. (2) The sophomores are proud of their third place in the float competition where they uphold the theme "Roast the Eagles."

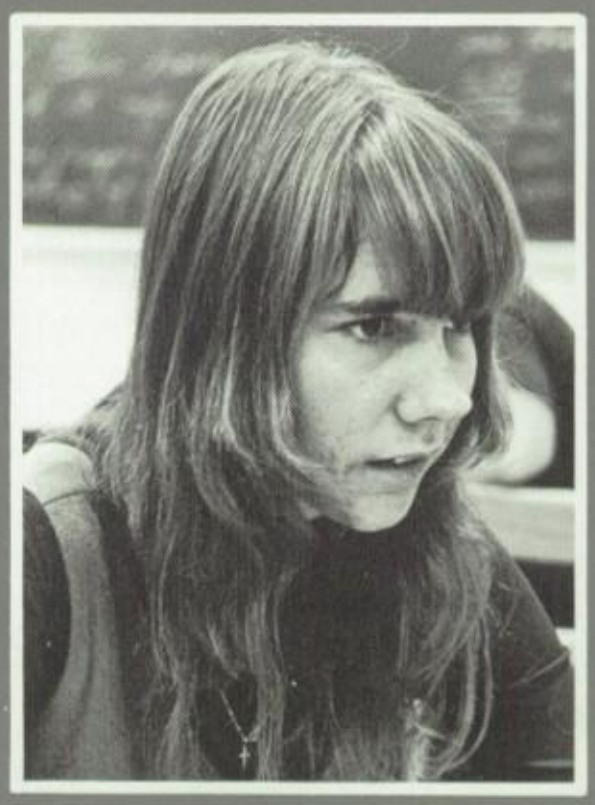
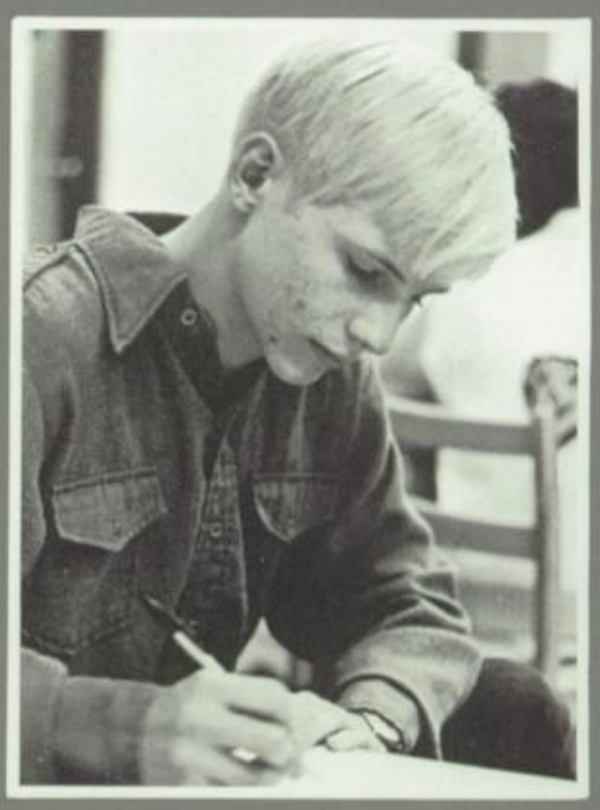
"Being a junior means lots of school, lots of time, and one year of school to go." Rod Culver, junior.

"Being a junior is to be right in the middle of everything. I've met a lot of really far-out people." Susie Royse, junior.





"Southeast is a place to meet new people and have a few weird experiences." Hal Glover, junior.

Debbie Copenhaver, junior class president said, "Student Council interest has made a definite gain. It's the people that make Student Council. They're more concerned and they have worked hard on StuCo projects."

"One problem is getting other people besides one certain group to work and I feel that is one of my most important concerns as junior class president."

"The student body will gain more privileges and responsibilities if we can prove our maturity to the faculty and administration. At one workshop I attended last fall, it was suggested that students could handle class scheduling. At present we must remain concerned with the class float, all-school project booths and anything else pertaining to our class."

Miss Copenhaver felt that StuCo was truly necessary and served as a mouthpiece for the individual.

"A student having a problem concerning the entire student body will probably have better results with StuCo behind him."

(1) Debbie Copenhaver, junior class president, takes her responsibility seriously. (2) "Brand the Eagles" is the theme of the junior class float as the group pulls first place in Homecoming competition.

Junior Mike Starch is captured deep in concentration.

"Here at Southeast my whole life style has changed; my attitude towards schooling has been remodeled from apathy to enthusiasm." Don Burns

(Southeast, to me, is one of the best high schools in the city.) "To be a senior means your last year, and it should be your most important year also." Sharon Turnetine

"Being a senior doesn't mean that much to me. It makes me feel a little more important and gives me an opportunity to do a little more." Robin Litchet

Steve Musick, senior class president, commented, "Last year when I ran for office I thought I could do a better job than those who were running. I didn't have a platform when I ran, but I thought I could promote a general interest in school concerts, sports activities and art shows."

Said Musick, "Students don't expect Student Council to accomplish anything and they don't go to the meetings. Kids put down Student Council for just planning dances, but what else can they do? StuCo just does not have any power. I don't think StuCo will accomplish anything."

"Another problem," continued Musick, "Many students use StuCo as an opportunity to get out of class and visit with their friends. Also at the meetings people discuss things for the sake of discussing and don't accomplish the purpose intended."

Concluded Musick, "Although this was not a good year for the Southeast StuCo, it was a very good year for the individual student."

(1) Steve Musick, senior class president. (2) The senior float, "Buffs Can't Be Beat," merits only a discouraging 2nd place in class competition. Senior men accompany the float to Friend's University for Homecoming festivities.

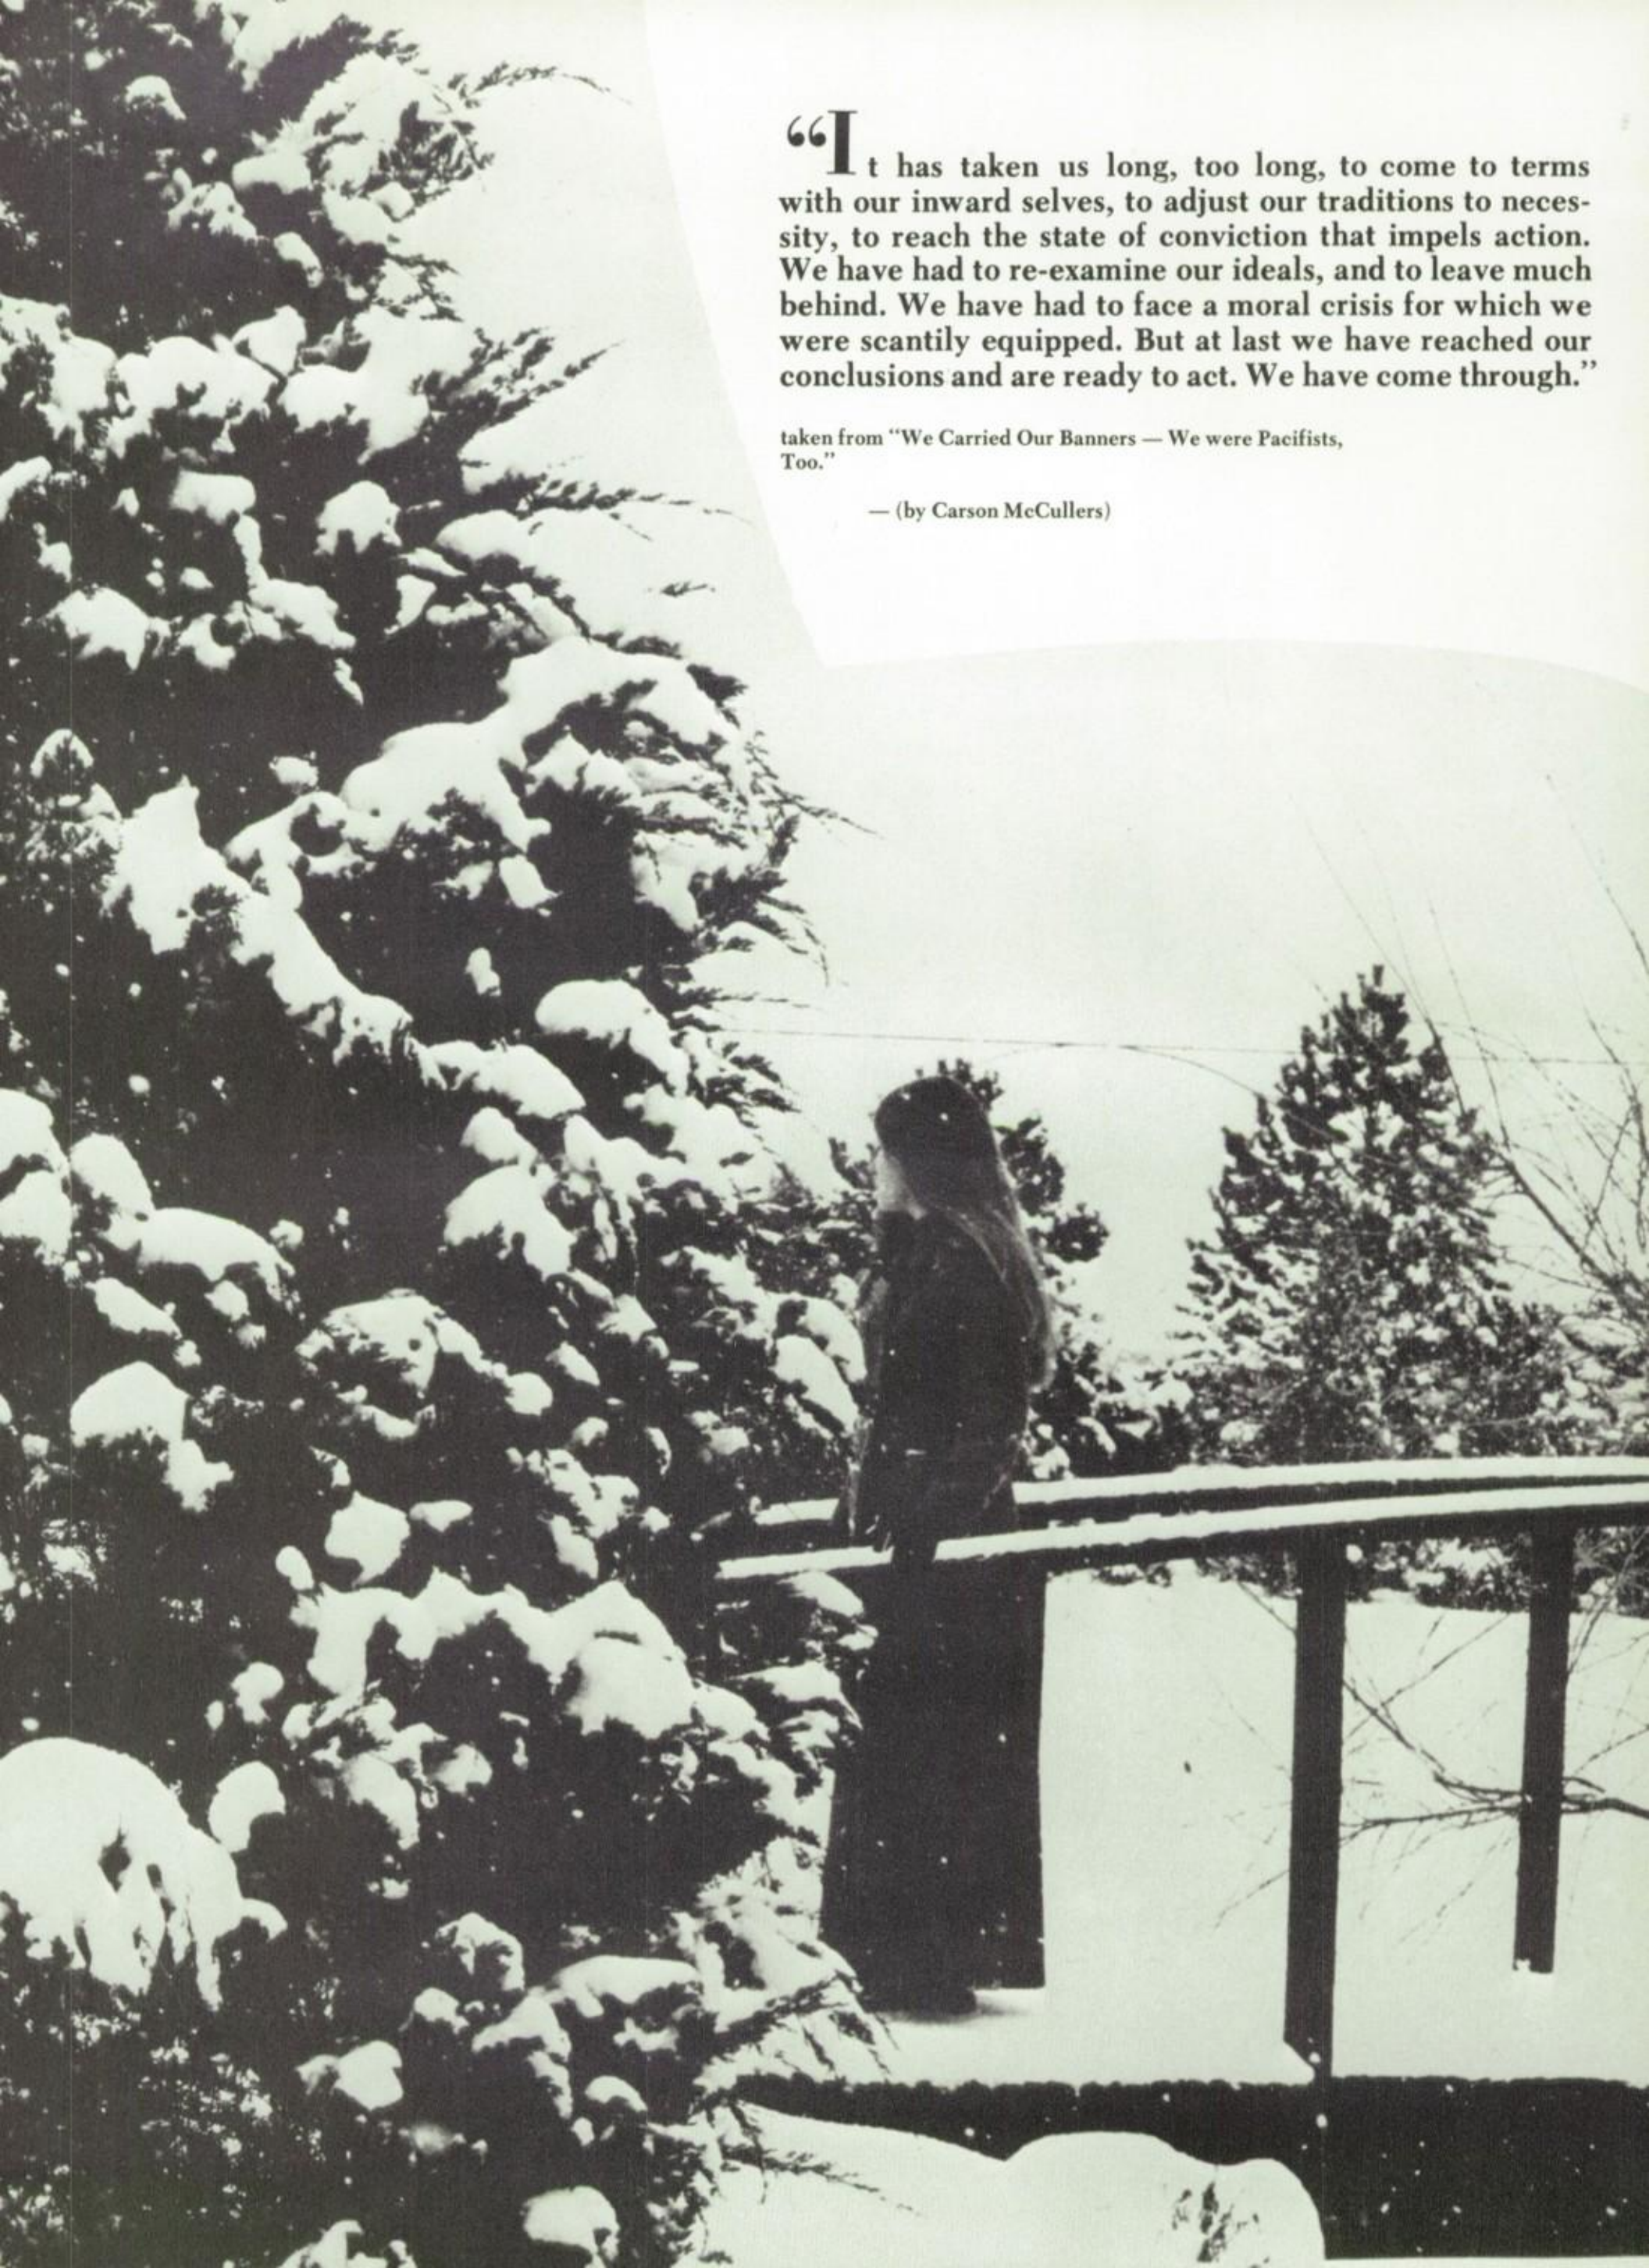
Only a close second look reveals that this chick supporting the "Journalism Jocks" during the faculty-journalism girls basketball game is none other than senior David Strong.



"It has taken us long, too long, to come to terms with our inward selves, to adjust our traditions to necessity, to reach the state of conviction that impels action. We have had to re-examine our ideals, and to leave much behind. We have had to face a moral crisis for which we were scantily equipped. But at last we have reached our conclusions and are ready to act. We have come through."

Nine seniors were named 1973 National Merit semi-finalists ter receiving top scores on the Pre- ninary Scholastic Aptitude Test.

ting the importance of the semi-fi- list ranking Mr. Clark Beck, college unselor said, "There is an opportun- to gain scholarships, the experi- ce of taking a test similar to the col- ge board examinations and a test ore that will help the student make a realistic evaluation of his performance at a highly selective college."

All semi-finalists were invited in January to the University of Kansas to participate in the annual Summerfield Test, which was a screening for the Summerfield-Watkins-Burger scholarships.

Further honors came as Karen Hemphill, senior, was chosen Southeast's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tommorrow. Taking a written knowledge and aptitude test, she was the first winner to ever compete against sixteen boys.

Cecil Kellenbarger, senior, was chosen for Girl's State, where girls gain insight into the democratic processes of state government.

IN REMEMBERANCE OF...

GARY JOHNSTON

(March 9, 1957– January 17, 1973)

Gary served Southeast High as manager of the swim team. In addition to his interest in sports, Gary maintained an "A" average and enjoyed playing chess. He was also an active participant in his church youth group.

"I" is our theme.

When this pronoun was suggested as a possible motif, it immediately brought to mind many of the high school student's characteristics. The editors finally adopted this theme because it reflected the individuality inherent in each person at Wichita High School Southeast. Each student was a uniquely different creature. Traditionally he should have been interested in dates, dances and football. Instead he was concerned with securing a personalized education and eventually using his education and innate abilities to make a mark on the world. He may have been interested in athletics and Student Council, but on an individual, self-satisfying basis.

Nearly every student has learned to belong to a group without losing his identity. There was strength in masses, but only when the single components retained their individuality. His niche may not have been in school activities but rather in activities outside the school, in the community and church.

In an attempt to record this interest in outside abilities, a current events tip-in was employed in the book. This section related the interest in world-wide occurances as they were reflected in the lives of students. Youth is no longer considered out of place in non-educational surroundings. In fact, many at Southeast respected activities that were community-related. They recognized the need for each person to find a group to which he could belong as individual. Although students would like to deny it, one of the most important aspects during our year at Southeast was competition. The theme "I" applied to this aspect.

Many students know who they would like to be and where they would like to go, but few can foresee their future. Most engaged in soul-searching in a attempt to determine their place in the world. Each has an intense desire to contribute in his own way. This is why each and every person at Southeast High School stood out from the mass and was an individual being.

"I" is Southeast
